Coalition Formed To Counteract Cuts

Washington (NBNS)--One of the most unusual coalitions of recent time was formed here last week to fight the President's proposed budget cuts.

The coalition--made up of farmers, urban dwellers, home builders, political groups and a number of diverse groups representing the urban and rural poor--call themselves the Coalition for Human Needs and Budget Priorities.

Headed by Milwaukee Mayor Henry Maier, the coalition said it would attempt to get Congress to shift money from military and foreign aid spending back into the domestic coffins.

The President sent Henry Kissinger to negotiate a withdrawal from Vietnam," Maier said, "but no one was sent to urban and rural America to notify them of his national withdrawal of resources..."

He told a press conference that "reduction in unnecessary military and space expenditures can yield billions desparately needed for our human programs at home."

One of the directors of the coalition--Paul Warnke, former assistant secretary of Defense--said he thought that $6 billion would be cut from this year's budget and shifted to domestic programs.

Maier said the organization's goal is not to "quarrel" with the President for holding down spending, but "we do quarrel with him on where he thinks budget cuts should be made.. What should be the No. 1 priority in urban and rural America becomes the lowest priority in the President's budget."

Attacking revenue sharing, Maier said:

"I for one have never been able to figure out what is in that sack of potatoes. We know for one that he took a lot of potatoes out of the sack and then called it special revenue sharing."

He said the group would insist "that Congress meet presidential challenges by developing its own fiscally responsible budget."

GOOD DRIVERS - Seaside Residents Louie W. Jenkins, 1732 Military Ave., and Joseph J. Russo, 595 Williams, received 2 -year and 6-year Safe Driving Awards respectively from Rear Admiral Mason Freeman, Superintendent, Naval Postgraduate School.

Prejudice Increased

Detroit (NBNS)--Wayne State University psychology Professor John E. Teahan recently conducted an experimental race relations program for Detroit policemen. White police officers emerged from the program with an intensified prejudice against Blacks, reports Dr. Teahan. However, the Blacks felt relationships improved during one part of the study and were more concerned about race relationships.

The study, begun in 1971, found animosity between Black and white officers increased after the officers had been on the force for a year.

Teahan said both Black and white officers preferred racially segregated assignments.

This column is dedicated to the person whom I love very much: My Mother. I may not mention her much, but there is not a moment in my life when I do not think of her, nor is there a second when I fail to be thankful because of her. The Master must have loved me to send me to this particular mother. This good and beautiful woman who was the source of me.

Because she lives - I live - and others live through me. I shall always want and need her as I did as a child when something went wrong. I shall always hear her comfort me when I am sad: "Here dear, I'm right here," she would say. "My goodness, honey, I've only been gone a little while."

I will always feel her presence as she puts her arms around me. "Don't cry, honey, it's all right. I'm right here. You know I will never leave you alone for very long."

Thank you for this comfort, Mom.

This past weekend was one of those wonderful group of days you want to forever remember. The nice people who shared my house with me made it memorable. If you were keen on our paper last July you may remember the lady who has spent the past years in Mexico and Germany. Her name is Hope Foye. On the front page of our newspaper that week was a photo of Hope playing "Porgy and Bess." It was the German production and all of the actors were blackfaced except Hope. Hope is a natural.

Well her daughter Belinda was here.

Belinda has recently finished working in the German production of "Hair" where she had one of the lead roles. Belinda was born in N.Y. but left when she was around 3 years old. Her mother being an actress, naturally Belinda grew up around the stage. So she is a "natural" also.

A friend of hers from Czechoslovakia also was my guest. We purposely will refrain from saying

Is More Police Manpower Answer To Crime?

By Michael D. Petit

Washington (NBNS)--A Congressional panel surveying police programs in 13 cities questioned District of Columbia Police Chief Jerry Wilson's emphasis of increased police manpower as the most effective tool for fighting street crimes in urban areas.

There was also a sharp series of exchanges between Wilson and Congressman Charles Rangel, a New York member of the House Crime Committee, following Wilson's statement that he had "not seen where an attack on the root causes of crime has had an effect on (reducing) crime."

The issue of increased manpower was raised by Committee Counsel Richard Lynch in noting that the District police force had grown from 3,000 to 5,100 in three years. The city's rate of seven policemen per 1,000 residents is the highest in the nation and, Wilson maintained, a principal reason why crime declined 29.6 percent last year and 40 percent since 1969.

Lynch referred to the previous day's testimony of Indianapolis Police Chief Winston Churchill who claimed a 26 percent decline in crime last year without increased manpower. Churchill's programs emphasis community interaction with the police department and high visibility of police personnel through such practices as allowing officers to use marked police cars as personal vehicles.

"Chief Churchill told us in his city he has 1.7 policemen per 1,000 residents, lowest of the 13 cities we've surveyed. When he asked him if he needed more policemen, he said: 'No!' Why the emphasis on increased man power in the District?' Lynch asked.

"There are problems in comparing Washington to Indianapolis," Wilson replied. "The istrict is a core city in a metropolitan area of three million. The entire Indianapolis metropolitan area is about the size of the Washington core area."

In Washington, however, Lynch rebutted, there are also supplemental police agencies such as the United States Park Police, the Capitol Police, suburban police departments and the Executive Protection Agency.

"I admit we have a heavy police force," Wilson replied, then asked rhetorically: "do I need more? No."

In addition to increased manpower, Wilson cited street lighting, expansion and streamlining of the courts and the success of the city's narcotics treatment programs as contributing factors to a reduction in crime.

Under persistent questioning by Rangel, who represents Harlem nd New York City's upper west side, Wilson refused to concede that a police chief's role included becoming involved in programs designed to attack poverty as police officials in other cities testified they were doing.

The Crime Committee chair by Congressman Claude Pepper (D, Florida) is holding three weeks of hearings into police, court and correctional programs which appear to be having an effect on reducing crimes son and property.

Bill Would End Strikes, Lockouts

Congressman Burt L. Talcott has commented on the prospects of his Bill to establish a legislative alternative to labor strikes and lockouts.

Talcott said, "Some Congresses ago when I introduced my bill to establish a legislative alternative to the strike and lockout, many nodded agreement but shrugged their shoulders at the prospects of accomplishing this goal.

"Now even progressive labor leaders are seriously considering ways to reconcile labor-management disputes without strikes, including my proposal for negotiation, mediation and arbtration. Two years ago this would have been heresy. But I believe we are entering a period of enlightened labor-management relations.

"President Nixon has created a National Commission for Industrial Peace to explore ways to harmonize differences at a free bargaining table.

"The United Steelworkers Union and 10 major steel companies, for example, have agreed to a non-strike provision for four or more years.

"The railway unions have fainlly discovered that crippling confrontations are just as costly to the employee as they are to railroad management and to the customers.

"The worker, manager, owner, consumer and our entire country have a huge stake in preserving industrial peace.

"I think my bill can provide the answer," Talcott concluded.

Enroll More Handicapped

Washington (NBNS) -- The Department of Health, Education and Welfare has decided to follow a Congressional mandate and enroll 37,900 handicapped children in the pre-school Head Start program by September.

Saying that he expected the federal agency to meet the Congressional deadline to enroll more handicapped children "by the end of 1974," HEW Secretary Caspar Weinberger explained the agency has begun a "major expansion" of medical, educational, nuturitional and other assistance to such youngsters.

"For the first time, large numbers of pre-school handicapped children will receive the benefits of an integrated setting where they can learn and develop with non-handicapped children," he noted.

Race Bias Charged

Washington (NBNS)--The Equal Employment Opportunity Commission (EEOC), announcing that it is entering a new era of civil rights enforcement, has filed 17 law suits charging some of the nations major companies with racial discrimination.

The Bartenders Unions of Oakland and San Francisco were among those charged with racial bias.

Last year Congress gave EEOC increased power to enforce the Civil Rights Act of 1964, which prohibits job discrimination on the basis of sex, race or religion.

PARIS--The African franc, a vestige of French colonial rule in Africa, is encountering growing difficulties with the 14 independent states that make up the franc zone.

President Moktar Ould Daddah of Mauretania has announced that his country intends to base his economy on a Mauretanian currency, backed by the country's iron and copper deposits, rather than on the African franc backed by the Bank of France.

Junior Rodeo Is May 20

Young riders are invited to enter the annual junior rodeo competition to be held Sunday, May 20, in the King City Rodeo Grounds arena.

As in past years, the junior rodeo is being sponsored by the King City Riding Club and the Salinas Valley Fair. The rodeo is traditionally the major event on closing day of the fair, and attracts hundreds of young horsemen from a wide area.

Entries for the 1973 junior rodeo close Saturday, May 5. No post entries will be accepted. Entries should be returned to the King City Riding Club, P.O. Box 305, King City, 93930.

Competition will begin at 8 a.m. with equitation and western pleasure classes. The morning will continue with events for small fry, stock horse, keyhole and pole bending races, team ribbon race and barrel race.

Following the 12:30 p.m. grand entry, competition will resume with roping and calf riding events.

Competition is open to any rider who was 17 or younger on January 1, 1973. Contestants will be grouped according to age, with sterling silver belt buckles going to high point boy and girl in each of the three age groups.

There will be trophies for first place winners and ribbons for the next four finishers in each event.

High Court Limits Right Of Protest On Grand Juries' Bias

By Paul H. Wyche, Jr.

Washington (NBNS)--Reversing a ruling by a federal District Court, the Supreme Court held that there should be limits on the right of criminals protesting racially discriminatory grand juries that indicted them.

Decided by 6-3 majorities, the court in effect denied appeals by two Blacks--one in Mississippi and the other in Tennessee--that their convictions should be overturned since the grand juries that indicted them had systematically eliminated Blacks. One of the men was convicted three years ago and the man in Tennessee was convicted 25 years ago.

In the case of Willie Lee Henderson of Tennessee, the high court said that he had waived his right to claim grand jury discrimination when he pleaded guilty to the indictment. He did not raise the issue of a racially-biased grand jury at the time.

Henderson was indicted for first-degree murder in Davidson County, Tennessee, in 1948 and no Black served on that grand jury until 1953. Blacks, however, make up 25 percent of the county's population, so there was no question of the discriminatory practices there.

In dissenting, Justice Thurgood Marshall reminded his colleagues that the right of criminals to protest bias in the grand jury system, even after conviction, cannot be waived by an accused criminal unless "the defendant has been informed of those rights and decided not to invoke them in order to gain some advantage" like pleading to a lesser charge.

In writing for the majority, Justice William H. Rehnquist said all the defendant can do is attack his guilty plea as involuntary and uninformed, based on inadequate advice from his lawyer whose competency is in question.

"When a criminal defendant has solemnly admitted in open court that he is in fact guilty of the offense with which he is charged he may not thereafter raise independent claims relating to the deprivation of constitutional rights that occurred prior to the entry of the guilty plea."

The Court of Appeals for the Sixth Circuit had affirmed the earlier ruling by the District Court. The court ordered Henderson released because the grand jury had been unconstitutionally selected.

In the Mississippi case, the majority said the District Court did not abuse its discretion in determining that the defendant should be held to his waiver since the Mississippi grand jury selection was quite obvious.

The case against Clifford H. Davis, who had been convicted of the federal crime of bank robbery along with two white accomplices, is similar to that of Henderson, the majority said.

Justice Rehnquist said that under the federal rules of criminal procedure, the defects in the indictment could only be raised before the trial. The defendant, he said, waives such a defense if he does not raise it then. A court may invalidate such a waiver "for cause shown."

But Justice Marshall, in his dissent, said that the "paramount public interest that the process of criminal justice be fair" should give the defendant the right to raise the grand jury selection question even after his conviction if he did not intentionally give it up before.

Today's Army NEWS By SSG R. Cardwell ARMY RECRUITER

Beginning May 1, the United States Army began offering two new enlistment options for service in the Regular Army which pay cash bonuses of $2,500 for a four-year enlistment. Titled the U. S. Army Cash Bonus Enlistment Option and the U. S. Army Training and Cash Enlistment Option, both are available to young men who qualify.

Prospective enlistees must meet normal mental, physical and moral standards for enlistment and must also be high school graduates. Those still in school may apply before they graduate if school officials certify they will graduate at the end of the school term.

Under the Cash Bonus Enlistment Option, young men without previous service may volunteer for the artillery, armor or infantry. The offer also applies to former servicemen, if they have served less than three years and have been out of service for more than three months.

The bonus is payable upon successful completion of basic combat training, advanced individual training and the award of a military occupational specialty which certifies the soldier is qualified to perform in his military job. The bonue, of course, is subject to normal deductions.

The combat arms option may be combined with a number of other combat arms opportunities including airborne training and duty, Special Forces, Ranger, U. S. Army Europe, U. S. Army Korea, U. S. Army Alaska, U. S. Army Hawaii, or the 193rd Infantry brigade in the Canal Zone. The enlistee may also select duty with one of the infantry or armored divisions stationed in the United States such as the 1st, 4th or 9th Infantry or the 2nd Armored Division. Also available is the 3rd Infantry Division, now in Germany.

Requirements for enlistment under the Training and Cash Enlistment Option are identical to those for the other program. This option, however, seeks to meet Army needs for a variety of technical skills including many in communications, missiles, radar and electronics, and nuclear weapons.

Under the Training and Cash Enlistment Option, enlistees complete basic combat training before going on to the advanced individual training leading to qualification in the field they have chosen. Most of the jobs require extensive training and provide the soldier with a solid background in electronics, communications or maintenance to use in his civilian career. The cash bonus is paid the enlistee when he is awarded the military occupational specialty certifying him qualified in his field.

For further information on these two $2,500 cash bonus enlistment plans, call Sergeant Cardwell at 372-0553 or visit his office at 431 Webster St. in Monterey.

too much about him. He is a wee bit shy. But an excellent musician. In fact he has spent most of his spare time just keeping his fingers warm on my trusty guitar. There is so much depth in him that it would be impossible to just write a paragraph about him.

Then there was Diane. In fact I met Diane through Belinda. After we all were sitting talking, Diane mentioned that she would enjoy visiting because it seemed I had things to say. That was a compliment. Most of her life had been ups and downs. (More downs than ups) She felt on the bottom. We had hours of conversation before I came to the realization that all she needed was to develop an ability to concentrate. She will work on that.

And Richard. He never talks, except on rare occasions. But when he does he has something to say. He would never answer a person who asked him how he felt, because he feels that is just a way of passing the time. But if you came up with a brilliant idea or something like that, he would be the first to jump in the conversation.

These were all young people. Through circumstances we spent a few days together. It has helped all of us. It helped me because for the first time in a long time I have been able to completely relax with someone and have them relax with me, and make me feel that I helped.

It is refreshing to know and feel that there are still so many young people who are reading, studying, working, practicing, getting an education and just being downright decent and nice. These are young people who are not abusing their bodies and are trying to make the most of their minds. And when they think they need help, they ask for it. And I thank whoever made it possible to enable me to be in the right place at the right time. These young people are made of tougher stuff than we were. They have to be in order to survive. They know more, care more, and are going to achieve more for mankind.

Thank you Lord, for these wonderful young people.

There were other things over the weekend. At King Jr. High School last Friday night was the most enjoyable talent contest I have ever witnessed. Those kids at the talent show were just terrific. The audience participation was outstanding. The one person who received a standing ovation from the kids was J.J. Jones, the Seaside Parks and Recreation Department Athletic ~~Director~~. Those kids certainly love J.J. So does everyone else.

Then Saturday morning was the kickoff for the Youth Drive. (It was a busy weekend for the Mayor and some members of the Council both Friday and Saturday). The goal for the Youth Drive is something like $100,000.00.

The Mayor bought the first ticket.

1st prize in the Youth Drive drawing will be a new V.W. Red Bug. But if you see the Mayor driving around in a new red bug, it is only an exact model and color of the one that will be won. Do not think you will be the one to "unseat" Mayor B.J.

We are taking this opportunity to slightly apologize to the people who have inquired about our coverage of the Miss Black Teenager of Monterey County. Somehow we received no news release or any advance notice at all on the contest. We read it in another paper. We had no photographer who would go uninvited. Again we apologize. Maybe next year. . . . .

I did not mention it in my last column, but Andy Barragan was in the hospital when I wrote last week. But Saturday he came home after a week in Community. He just became a little tired and had to rest for a few days while the doctors "jacked" him up a bit.

I believe in miracles. I see his heart - that heart that he taxed and strained for so many others - growing stronger. Thank you.

I see his warm red blood coursing freely through his veins. I see and claim these things for him through the power of divine love.

Thank you for giving us courage and comfort throughout these trying times.

DEL MONTE HEIGHTS WATER

Last August all of the homeowners in the Del Monte Heights Redevelopment area were alerted to the potential water shortage crisis that occurred during the hot/dry summer period. At that period we had 600 customers being served by the city owned water wells.

Today there are 725 customers being provided high quality water by the city; demands for water are ever increasing and eventually 900 customers must be adequately served.

Late last summer the situation was critical and required expedient temporary action to meet the situation. It may be anticipated that the condition will be more severe this summer.

There are two courses of action which the city is pursuing to relieve the situation both for the coming summer and for the future expansion of services. The first of these include "prospecting" for additional groundwater and the construction of an additional well station.

The second course of action would take steps to curtail the wastage or extravagant and unnecessary use of water. It was observed last summer that a plant divider on Broadway was irrigated for many hours and most of the water reached the street pavement and was wasted. Public parks and school grounds may also be placed on very limited water usage.

Once again we are requesting that the 725 families in Del Monte Heights please continue Water Conservation measures until we do have an additional new well for our city owned system. We will keep you informed regarding developments as we progress. Thank you for your cooperation.

As I See It

BY MEL VERCOE

"Mr. President, here is that witch doctor you sent for."

"Thank you, Ziegler. Here, have a seat, Mr. Witch Doctor. I'll be brief and to the point and let me make myself crystal clear. Me gottum problem. Me want you to stick pins in dolls that look like Democrats plus one Republican named Dean. You savvy?"

"I believe I understand your position, Mr. President. And you won't have to speak broken English to me. I majored in political science at one of your larger universities."

"Sorry about that, but things have been a bit hectic. Anyway, I want you to know that I don't believe in witchcraft, but we have tried everything else. Nothing has worked, so far. I'll show you some photos of the guys who have been bugging me. Oh, how I hate that world. Now then, if you make some dolls that look like Dean and Art Hoppe and Reston, and then take some copies of the Washington Post, the New York Times and the L.A. Times, and stick a lot of pins, the bigger the better, into the whole shaboodle, do you think it would help?"

"Possibly, but I wish you had called me sooner. The pin system is not as effective in a case of this type as what we call the choke system. Most of your difficulty stems from an overwhelming desire on the part of some individuals to try to sing like canaries rather than go to prison. In the choke system instead of sticking pins in the dolls we tie strings around their necks, which seems to cause the subjects to choke on relatively simple words like Watergate, for example."

"Well, it's too late for that. Dean already put the finger on me. All I want to do right now is get even."

"I'm sorry, Mr. President. Under the circumstances I cannot guarantee results, but we can try. However, I recently heard of a remarkable place some distance from where I grew up ---."

"Great. You mean they've got something that will work? Let's send for it right away.

"No, Mr. President. There isn't anything there that will work here, but is at least a hundred miles away the nearest phone, and is not shown on any map. I just thought it would be a nice place for you to retire in case you have to leave before your term is up.

Bob Wood Reports

When California voters by a 2-1 margin adopted an initiative measure on their ballot last November to restore capital punishment - the death penalty - little did they know they might have to cast their vote again.

This could well happen unless a bill now before the State Senate passes both houses of our Legislature. The answer as to why we need an initiative or more direct legislation to revive the death penalty is confusing to most of us. It seems the approval of Proposition 17 last year only amended the State Constitution to change language which had formed the basis for a State Supreme Court ruling that the death penalty provisions in our criminal laws were unconstitutional.

Meanwhile, the U. S. Supreme Court ruled that death penalty statutes in the country as a whole could be changed if they are to meet its interpretation of the federal constitution.

Actually, this means that our Legislature, and others, must decide what crimes shall be punishable by the death penalty. The Nebraska and Connecticut legislatures, for example, recently passed new capital punishment laws.

In our Legislature a bill the author says will "fully restore capital punishment in California" has been introduced and passed its first hurdle in a Senate committee last week by a 9-2 vote. It contains the names of 35 co-authors, including your own Assemblyman, and it has the support of the Governor.

However, even if it gets out of the Senate, it faces possible defeat in the Assembly committee on Justice, which contains a majority of liberal lawmakers who have voted consistently against capital punishment, irrespective of the overwhelming vote of the people.

It is quite clear that those legislators who fail in their responsibilities to carry out a clear public mandate of the people will, - as one newspaper said - "be guilty of a dismal abdication of their responsibilities.

I feel it would be unfortunate indeed if the people were again forced to campaign and vote for their cause because a small group of liberal lawmakers refused to pass the bill out of this important committee.

Bob Wood Ammendment

Assemblyman Bob Wood (R-Monterey County) has introduced a bill and constitutional amendment which would allow some homeowners who buy their home after the March 1 lien date to still qualify for the homeowners exemption.

Under the present law, unless you live in your own home on March 1, you cannot get the homeowners exemption, which can save homeowners up to around $250 in property taxes every year in Monterey County. If a homeowner moves in after the lien date, he must wait until December 10 for the following year before he realizes any property tax relief. The Wood bill would enable persons who buy their home between March 1 and June 15 to still qualify for the exemption.

Wood said, "now that the homeowners exemption means so much in terms of property tax relief, we have to be a little more tolerant to allowing them to qualify. The property tax is considered by many to be the highest of our major taxes; if we are going to allow the homeowners exemption, we should be doing our best to let as many people as possible qualify."

Because the homeowners exemption provisions are in the California Constitution, Wood's measure will have to be submitted to the voters as a ballot proposition at a general election for the approval of the people. The bill must also pass the legislature before being placed on the ballot.

Chamber of Commerce Progress Report

by Verlaine Crawford, Executive Director

The Seaside Independence Day Parade will soon be here; it will be held on Sunday, July 1, on Del Monte Blvd. this year. The Seaside Chamber of Commerce will sponsor the annual Pancake Breakfast in the Monterey Peninsula Auto Center beginning at 8 a.m. on the 1st of July.

The Board of Directors of the Chamber voted at the last meeting to take the money that the Parade Association usually gives to the Chamber, to build a float, and use it instead to help the Seaside High Band or some other youth organization to go to nearby parades or to buy uniforms. This money may still be used for a float if the Parade Committee wishes to do so, but the Chamber felt that the $500 could be better spent for some other purpose.

In case you didn't know, the Seaside Chamber of Commerce does not sponsor the parade. They haven't done so for three years. A special committee, called the Monterey Peninsula Parade Association, Inc., was set up to use the funds donated by the City of Seaside to put on the parade. By doing this, the city hopes to make the parade a Peninsula-wide event and so help to defray costs by including other cities. This year we have representatives from Pacific Grove, Marina, Carmel and the Monterey Peninsula Chamber of Commerce on the Parade Committee. The City of Seaside is still the sole contributor to the parade of $6000; but hopefully, in the future, other cities will help pay for the parade.

This year there will be a drum and bugle corp contest held on Saturday, June 30, at the Monterey Peninsula Fairgrounds. This promises to be a colorful and exciting show. There will be more details later.

The Chamber will be holding a get-acquainted mixer for members and non-member on Thursday, May 24, at H & H Supply from 6 to 7:30 p.m., so mark that date on your calendar to come out and say hello.

The Board voted to adopt a resolution supporting the establishment and funding of a Consumer Affairs function within the Department of Weights and Measures in Monterey County at our last meeting. If this Consumer Affairs function is set up, it will be a place locally that you may take problems usually handled by a Better Business Bureau. We receive many complaints at the Chamber about various kinds of problems, so I think that this kind of agency in the County will be very helpful.

The Career Education Mini-Seminars that I have been organizing at Seaside and Monterey High Schools have been very successful. Last month we had speakers on the Communications Industry and we had the Program Directors from KMBY, MP-TV, KMST-TV and a man from Persia, who is an expert on Cinematography. It was very interesting. This month will be the field of medicine. These seminars help students to develop a better idea about the kinds of careers available to them in the world of work.

The next Board of Directors meeting of the Chamber will be May 17 at 8 a.m. at the Chamber. Everyone is invited to sit in and give their opinions and ideas to the group. If you need information, call the Chamber at 394-6501.

By the way, have you bought your ticket for the "Dollars for Youth" campaign, sponsored by the City of Seaside. This is a very worthwhile project and the Chamber is behind the effort 100 percent.

Oh yes, drop over and see the beautiful new Porsche-Audi Dealership in the Auto Center. It's outstanding!

Officer John M. Wernsing

John M. Wernsing was born and raised in Baltimore, Maryland, where he attended elementary schools and graduated from Patterson Park High School. Joining the U. S. Army in January of 1962, John served 8 years with the Army Medical Corps. During the time he spent with the Army he served two years in Korea, one year in Vietnam. John is the holder of various medals including The Bronze Star, Purple Heart, Vietnam Campain, Vietnamese Cross of Valor, and the Combat Medic Badge.

Stateside, John pulled tours of duty at Fort Ord and Oakland. While at Oakland he became interested in the Boy Scouts and acted as Scout Master for one of the troups there. While assigned to Fort Ord he decided that after his military career came to an end he would make the Monterey Peninsula his home.

After his discharge from the Army in January of 1970, John worked as a guard at Soledad Correctional Facility-Central where he attended and graduated from the Academy for Correctional Officers. He terminated his employment there and joined the Seaside Police Department in March of 1971. Since that time John has attended Monterey Peninsula College and is working towards his AS degree in Police Science. John graduated from the Central Coast Counties Police Academy located at Gavilan College in Gilroy. After graduation, John received his basic certificate from the State of California, Department of Justice from the Commission on Peace Officers Standards and Training. Striving to gain as much knowledge as possible in the field of law enforcement, John has attended numerous classes and training sessions.

John's ambitions include achieving the highest possible education in the field of law enforcement. John stated that becoming an expert patrolman is the first item of completion on his list, then rising through the ranks in the police department.

Married and a father of three children, John enjoys fishing, gardening, and making things around the house.

Hitchcock Classics

Two Alfred Hitchcock classics "North By Northwest" and "The Paradine Case" will continue a festival of his work this Friday, May 11, at Monterey Peninsula College.

The program, the second of three in a retrospective series, is being presented by the MPC Film Appreciation Club and will be screened once at 8 p.m. in Lecture Forum 103 on campus.

"North by Northwest" (1959) sets the pace for espionage and counter expionage on Mount Rushmore. Cary Grant is an espionage group's target for pursuit (even by low flying crop dusting planes) and Eva Marie Saint is determined to catch up with him.

"The Paradine Case" (1947), Hitchcock's last collaboration with producer David O. Selznick, stars an impressive array of actors. Gregory Peck is a lawyer defending Alida Valli who has been accused of mrudering her husband. This intense courtroom drama also features Charles Laughton, Ethel Barrymore, Lois Jordan and Ann Todd.

The series will conclude Friday, May 18, with the screening of "Psycho" and "The 39 Steps." Additional information can be obtained by contacting the student activities desk at the college.

A $1.25 admission will be asked at the door. Coffee on the house will be served during intermission.

Your Supervisor Reports

Roger Poyner

Congratulations to JoAnn Ford who captured the title, "Miss Black Teen-age Monterey Peninsula." I was present at the Seaside High School on Saturday night when she was named. I am glad that I was not a judge as it must have been very difficult to select only one winner. As far as I am concerned, every girl who participated was a "winner" because of her participation. The pageant itself was very professionally staged and an exciting event for the general public to observe. Of course, credit for this event goes not only to its participants and sponsors but to the cotillion league whose members have been the backbone of this event.

It was my pleasure to nominate and have the Board of Supervisors approve the appointment of Allen Belton to the Monterey County Alcoholism Coordinating Council. Mr. Belton is the head of our county's Neighborhood Youth Core Porgram. He is also the Paster of the Seaside Lighthouse Full Gospel Church. Pastor Belton has also been instrumental in establishing with others in the Seaside Community a family counseling center called "AGAPE House." I am pleased that Pastor Belton will be serving on this important committee. I am also pleased to announce the opening of Monterey County's Alcohol De-tox Center in Salinas. This experimental program has been approved by the Monterey County Alcoholism Coordinating Council and is funded by the California Council on Criminal Justice. This is a "front line" program which assumes that alcoholism is a disease and not a crime. An arrest for "drunk in public" willl not result in winding up in the "drunk tank" at county jail but rather in the De-tox facility at Community Hospital where properly trained and sympathetic people will handle the problem . I am hopeful that his new approach will be of great assistance in helping the alcoholic and in helping society deal effectively with the disease of alcoholism.

Cash Grants Awarded By Jazz Fest

The committee on grants for the Monterey Jazz Festival has awarded $21,800 from the profits of last year's annual festival to other nonprofit Monterey Peninsula music activities. This brings the total amount of Jazz Festival grants to $123,598 since the event began in 1958.

The Lyceum of the Monterey Peninsula was granted $2,500 for its summer music program for gifted students. The Seaside High School Concert Orchestra was awarded $1,800 to enable it to appear at the Music Educators National Conference in Arizona this spring. The Norman Granz Perpetual Scholarship, which was established by the Festival last year, was granted $1,000. Additionally, $5,000 was awarded to Monterey Peninsula College Music Department; $3,000 to the Seaside Community Choir; $1,500 to the Monterey Peninsula Unified School District to purchase instruments for the kindergarten through 6th grade music program; $1,000 to the Monterey County Symphony for its youth program.

Additionally, $6,000 was voted to finance the third annual California High School Jazz Band Competition set this year for June 2 at Monterey Peninsula College.

The Monterey Jazz Festival, now in its 16th year, is a nonprofit, educational corporation. This year's Festival will be held September 21, 22, 23.

Contract Is Awarded

Seaside County Sanitation District has awarded a contract to Hunsaker Construction Company of Clovis, California for Improvements to Wastewater Treatment Works. This contract culminates a combined local, state, and federal effort representing a giant step forward in obtaining wastewater treatment facilities necessary to assure clean water for all Californians.

The State Water Resources Control Board also assures an 80 percent grant even if the new federal Water Pollution Control Amendment of 1972 is passed.

The contract is for the installation of filters and chlorine contact chambers. The contract amount is $113,000 and the project was designed by Jenks & Adamson, Consulting Engineers to the Seaside County Sanitation District.

Security, Independent Savings Merge

Independent Savings has merged with Security Savings to form a $600 million statewide association, it was announced recently, by Edward Fisher, Assistand Vice President. The combined institutions, now under the name of Security Savings, have 28 offices extending from the San Francisco bay area to Greated Los Angeles.

Fisher said: "Though we're bigger, with more facilities and a different name, we haven't changed a bit insofar as our savings and loan customers are concerned. Our popular free saver benefits, through The Home & Garden Club, will continue and be expanded, while the people you like to do business with, are just as eager to serve you under our new banner of Security Savings."

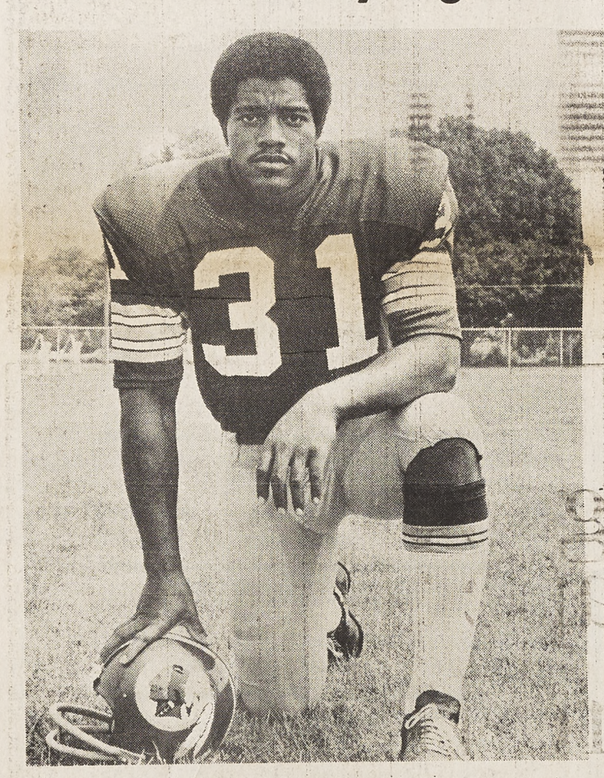
New additional saver services are already being planned, he said, while the added size and strength of the combined association will greatly enhance its opprotunities for real estate lending in the Salinas/Monterey area.

Security Savings is a subsidiary of California Financial Corporation, which is a listed company on the New York Stock Exchange. The management and policies of the former Independent officer are not affected by the merger.

The offices are at 480 S. Main Street in Salinas, and 1033 Broadway in Seaside.

MILK IS THE RICHEST SOURCE OF CALCIUM in the average diet. Calcium is important in the formation and repair of bones and teeth. Diets lacking in milk are quite likely to be deficient in this mineral. Make sure your children drink plenty of calcium rich milk. Use it regulary in foods you prepare.

Redskin Star To Speak At Monterey High



RETURNS - Charley Harraway, fullback of Washington Redskins and 1962 graduate of Monterey High School will speak at Fellowship of Christian Athlete's Bar-B-Que May 17 at Monterey High Cafeteria. He will also show highlight film of Redskins' season. (See story for details.)

The Fellowship of Christian Athletes of Monterey High School, the Monterey Kiwanis Club and the Monterey Savings and Loan take pleasure in jointly sponsoring the Washington Redskins fullback, Charley Harraway, on the Monterey High School campus, Thursday, May 17th.

Charley will be the featured speaker at a F.C.A. Bar-B-Que on Thursday evening at 6:30 in the Monterey High School cafeteria. He will show a Redskins highlight film from this season and he will also speak at an all school assembly that morning.

The evening Bar-B-Que will raise funds to send high school athletes to the F.C.A. summer sports camp. Tickets for the event are $3 for adults and $2 for students through high school. Tickets may be purchased at the Monterey Sport Shop, The Carmel Sport Shop, The A to Z Sport Shop or by calling the high school at 649-7482.

Charley is a 1962 graduate of Monterey High School and is donating his services to the school's Fellowship of Christian Athletes Club on its fund raising bar-b-que.

Charley is well known for his deep religious convictions and support for the national F.C.A. He also is an organizer in the "Man to Man" program which does work with people in prisons.

The Fellowship of Chrsitian Athletes is a non-denominational national organization establishing itself on high school and college campuses among coaches and athletes with a large following from professional athletes and coaches.

The F.C.A. believes that young maturing athletes should have positive examples set for them by the college and pro athletes. Because of this, more and more professional athletes are supporting the Fellowship of Christian Athletes in speaking at various schools and staffing the F.C.A. summer sports camps.

Co-sponsors of the Monterey High School F.C.A. group are Doyle Clayton and Ken White.

Race Relations Is Topic of Meeting At Ord

A two-day Race Relations Conference was held at Fergusson Hall, Ft. Ord, April 26-27. More than 150 military and civilian men and women from throughout the Sixth U.S. Army area took part.

In addition to listening to prominent Human Relations speakers the group spent a considerable amount of the session broken down into small groups with specific discussion subjects. There were six of these discussion groups.

Some of the subjects were: "How important are the terms "perception," "empathy," and sensitivity," in a racial program? To what extent do women take part in the total race relations/equal opprotunity program? How does the commander see his role in the Human Relations Program? Is it necessary for commands to maintain statistics relative to race relations/equal opportunity matters?

Speakers at the full sessions included Philip Montes of the US Commission of Civil Rights; Dr. Richard Hope from the Defense Race Relations Institute, Patrick Air Force Base, Fla.; Colonel Ernest R. Frazier, Army Director of Equal Opportunity Program from Department of the Army, Washington, D.C.; and Major Sherian Cadoria, Race Relations Officer of the WAC Training Center, Ft. McClellan, AL.

The meeting was hosted by Major Samuel A. Britten, Ft. Ord's Human Relations staff officer.

GIVES ADDRESS - Major Sherian Cadoria, Race Relations Officer, Women's Army Corps Training Center, Fort McClellan, Alabama, was one of several speakers at Sixth US Army Race Relations Conference held at Fort Ord April 26 and 27.

250 MPC Students To Get EOPS Help

Approximately 250 Monterey Peninsula College students will receive direct or indirect help from the $73,738 in Extended Opportunity Programs and Services (EOPS) funds approved by the California Community Colleges Board of Governors, April 13.

John Rivers, associate dean of student personnel, said the district had requested $94,000in funds, but with the cutbacks, the district will have to be "more creative and innovative in cutting costs in program operation to stretch the dollars."

He said that about 75 students would receive outright grants and that the other 175 students would be assigned to tutoring, counseling and other part-time jobs in the community.

MPC was 46th on a priority list of 85 other community colleges to receive the EOPS funds. More than $5.1 million were allocated to help an estimated 20,000 disadvantaged students.

Chancellor Sidney W. Brossman noted the EOPS funding program is contingent on passage of the state budget. If the budget should be augmented above the $5.1 million figure by the Legislature and approved by the Governor, provisions were made by the Board to increase funding proportionately to the colleges.

The program approved by the Board was recommended by Brossman's office after screening applicants from 88 colleges seeking a total of $16,453,950 for a variety of EOPS projects.

FAA Grant To Airport

Congressman Burt L. Talcot announced that he was instrumental in obtaining a grant from the FAA for the Monterey Peninsula Airport.

The grant was in the amount of $66,613. These funds are to be used by the Monterey Peninsula Airport to purchase two firefighter rescue trucks and one light rescue truck.

The Monterey Peninsula Airport has been in dire need of this equipment for some time. This will enable the firefighting unit to better their ability to battle serious aircraft fires.

DAIRY SOUR CREAM IS A PERISHABLE PRODUCT. Store it in the refrigerator. Leave it in the original container and keep it clean and covered. Sour cream and mayonnaise mixed half and half makes an excellent dressing for close slaw.
